Dear Dick:

Since 12 April 1956, when the first flight tests were initiated on System No. 2, it has been found necessary to perform a large volume of engineering work to incorporate circuit and other changes in the system to ensure the optimum performance of which this configuration is capable. A smaller number of changes resulted from the flight tests conducted during mid-May. The combined effort of all changes found to be either essential or extremely desirable may be appreciated from the fact that approximately 1200 drawing modifications were required. The attached Statement of Work details some of the more important engineering changes that have been made. These have necessitated the expenditure of approximately 5000 hours of engineering time and related amounts of design, drafting, technician, and shop time. A summary of the total additional time spent on system engineering is given on the attached cost estimate for additional development costs.

We would appreciate receiving your authorization, in the form of such contract amendment as may be required, to include these costs as an allowable item under the System 2 development program.

Sincerely,

Si
